

Bass Point Fire Swept, Causing $300,000 Loss

Famous Massachusetts Coast Resort Loses 25 Permanent Homes and Summer Cottages—500 Homeless—Summer White House of President Escapes Damage.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Nahant, Mass., June 11.—Fanned by a stiff northwest wind, flames swept the Bass Point section of this seaside town today destroying 25 homes, cottages and summer boarding houses, injuring several persons, making homeless scores of others and doing property damage conservatively estimated by Fire Chief Robert Cole at $300,000.

Firemen from half a dozen cities were handicapped by low water pressure but a fire boat from Boston prevented a conflagration by pumping six streams at high pressure from the sea.

Fed on sundried roofs, the flames swept an area half a mile long and 300 yards wide.

Scores of men, women and children in night attire fled through the wind swept streets, leaving their possessions to the care of police, soldiers and coast guardsmen.

Before the fire was under control firemen from Nahant, Lynn, Swampscott, Salem, Revere, Chelsea, Peabody, a fire boat from Boston and United States troops and coast guardsmen battled the flames.

Fire brands swept under the coast guard "White Court" as Little's Point Swampscott, summer White House of President Coolidge, but no damage was done there.

A strong wind, blowing from the northwest, carried the flames with lightning-like rapidity through the Bass Point section.

The wind, however, saved the famous Relay House, and the court yard of this hostelry was used for the refugees from the burned homes and cottages.

Household goods were carried by the homeless to the Relay House court yard and stacked up.

A call was immediately sent to the Red Cross and Salvation Army and detail was rushed to aid the stricken.

The telephone lines over the peninsula from Lynn to Nahant, went out of commission, except for a single line, and thousands of automobiles clogged the Lynn Beach boulevard, hampering the work of out of town firemen in getting to the scene.

Hampered by low water pressure the firemen on land had great difficulty in controlling the flames in the north of the brisk wind. For a time the firemen could do little but aid the refugees.

Meanwhile, a detail of United States Army regulars came over the road in trucks from Fort Banks at Winthrop and joined with the regulars at Fort Gardner here to help the fire fighters. Coast guardsmen from the local station turned out and gave a hand.

With Fire Chief Case of Lynn engaged in an uphill battle with the crushing flames on land, a call was sent to Boston for a fire boat.

Speedy response and the arrival of a fire boat from Boston, which made fast at Fort Gardner and played five streams of high pressure in various points, prevented what undoubtedly would have been the extermination of the whole of this town.

The area burned would cover about five city blocks. Starting on Bay View avenue in a summer cottage occupied by a boy's club from a burning cigarette stub, the fire swept up one side of this avenue, crossed the street, went into Gardner road and then leaped up Castle Road to the summer colony. It was burning fiercely in the Cobey Hill section when the fire boat arrived from Boston.

Among the homes destroyed were those of Mrs. Matty Baldwin, widow of the pugilist, and Eugene Bryan, proprietor of the Relay House.

Many residents were slightly injured in fighting the flames and in the removal of what effects they could gather up.

The home of the late United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was not endangered by the fire, being in another section of the town.

FIRE PROTECTION SYSTEM INSTALLED AT CONNELLY.

The board of fire commissioners of Connelly have recently completed installing an up to date fire protection system. The cast iron water mains laid through the streets connect with modern fire hydrants. The system has just been tested out and is found to work successfully. The water for the mains and hydrants is pumped from the Rondout creek. The equipment and installation was furnished by the Cast-iron Store Company of this city.

Demand Withdrawal of Troops.

Peking, June 11.—The Chinese foreign office, in a strong note to the powers today, demanded that the Shanghai authorities spontaneously lift martial law, rearm foreign marines, disarm the foreign regular and volunteer police and release the rioting students from jail.

The note asserted that the Chinese government cannot share the foreign view as to the shooting of ten students in the street demonstrations that preceded the present general strike. The note insisted that responsibility for the shooting falls upon those foreigners in authority in the international concession.

No Back-down at Washington.

Washington, June 11.—Regardless of the Chinese demands made to foreign diplomats at Peking, American military forces will not be withdrawn from Shanghai and Canton so long as state and navy department representatives in the Far East believe they are needed for the protection of American lives and interests, it was learned here this afternoon.

Chest of Tools For Scout Camp

Kingston Chamber of Commerce Makes Scout Craft Contest Possible by Donating a Chest of Tools.

Another special feature of this year's Boy Scout camp will be the contests to be held weekly during the entire camp season. The building of a "Camp craft yard" for display of all the camping and scouting contests will be the big feature of this program and all boys will have a part in this work. The contests will be as follows: Knot board, trail signs, whittling, fire and fire places, pioneering, scout and camp kinks and nature handicraft. Right along in line with their policy of building, the Kingston Chamber of Commerce is getting behind the Boy Scout camp this year and is presenting the camp with an extra high grade chest of tools, containing an assortment of 22 tools, making it possible for the boys to work on this, the most interesting and instructive features of this season's outing.

Although the applications for camp continue to come in at Boy Scout Headquarters, there is still room for several more. Troop 1, New Falls, was the first troop outside of Kingston to send in their camp applications.

Governor Has Faith in Radio

Believes His Speech Tonight Over WGY Will Arouse People—Indications Are That Republicans Will Listen Attentively and Then Repass the Thayer Bill.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, June 11.—Governor Smith will not be able to compel the Republican legislature to pass a new state park appropriation bill at the special session which he has called for Monday night, June 22.

This was the general belief at the capitol today after the governor's action had been discussed pro and con by both Republicans and Democrats.

There is every indication the Republicans, who control both houses of the legislature, will come back to Albany, listen attentively to what the governor will say in his special message about parks, and then go ahead and repass the Thayer bill of last winter which was vetoed by the governor.

The Thayer bill would have appropriated $6,000,000 of the $15,000,000 park bond issue for immediate use by the state park council. In rejecting the bill, the governor charged Republican legislative leaders with attempting to inject politics into the state park program.

The governor, however, feels certain of success. He has great confidence in the radio. Tonight he will speak half an hour, through Station WGY of Schenectady to the people of the state. His whole address will be devoted to the park controversy.

Through the medium of the radio the governor expects to arouse the people of the state to such an extent that public sentiment will be so strong for his park measure the Republican lawmakers will virtually be compelled to give in.

Several of the Republican leaders, including Speaker McGinnies, of the assembly, have said, however, they did not believe the Republicans would back track one inch from the position they took at the session last winter when they refused to amend the Thayer bill as recommended by the governor.

The Republicans want all land to be taken by the state park council for park purposes to be first approved by the state land board, which is composed entirely of Republicans. This is strongly objected to by the governor, who has pointed out that should the amendment be adopted this fall the land board will pass out of existence.

FACULTY AND STUDENTS QUIT FAMOUS SCHOOL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Groton, Mass., June 11.—Lawrence Academy, select preparatory school for boys where some of the "big guns" got their start and the knowledge to keep going, saw a resounding exodus today. In fact, by tonight the famous school may resemble bleak house.

A majority of the students and almost the entire faculty have packed their "trunks" and have left the institution, never to return. Others likely will follow.

Action by a group of the trustees, headed by Albert E. Hillsbury and Michael Sweeney, to oust Dr. Howard Allen Bridgman, the principal, was resented by most of the faculty and pupils.

INCENDIARY FIRE MAKES 8 FAMILIES HOMELESS

The flames started in a vacant attic, but no cause has been found. One tenant, Margaret Hardy, 22, faintly and was carried out by firemen. Two alarms called in the downtown apparatus and the firemen fought for two hours before the flames were entirely extinguished. The loss is set at $50,000.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Kingston, June 11.—The menial clouds of economic and industrial disruption hung over the Ruhr today threatening disaster not only in that rich basin but all industrial Germany.

It was announced 165,000 workers and miners and 800 office employees of one of the most important industrial concerns in the Ruhr would be dismissed June 15.

The industrial storm has been brewing for weeks. It was fore-shadowed a fortnight ago before the internal feud, re-organization and division of the Stinnes interests, pointed to a disintegration of the great structure reared by the late Hugo Stinnes.

According to reliable information the Stinnes liabilities total 155,000,000 gold marks ($31,000,000) of which 110,000,000 marks are due July 1.

Strenuous efforts are being made by the Reichsbank and by private banks to "sanitize" the Stinnes structure.

Further trouble in this huge chain of industries would rock the already shaky German industrial world.

Less than a week ago the Stinnes reorganization was made public. Three days later it was reported the situation at the Thyssen works was critical, threatening at least a partial shut-down.

The great Krupp works had previously announced the dismissal of 9,000 workers July 1 and wage cuts for those remaining on the pay roll.

Today's blow falls with increasing force. It is the most serious development in the crisis which German economic leaders attribute to French occupation of the Ruhr.

HARRY THAW RETURNS FOR ANOTHER WHIRL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 11.—Harry K. Thaw made a sensational re-entrance into Broadway's night life early this morning, stalled traffic at Forty-eighth street, motored up the bridge path in Central Park and narrowly escaped getting arrested in a taxicab ride.

Harry's re-advent into the tinsel life of the roaring Forties was made two weeks ago. It wasn't like the "good old days," but still it has its lure, even in these quiet times, and after two weeks of rusticationing down in Virginia, Harry decided to come back for another while at it.

The reporters saw Harry in a supper club on upper Broadway about the same time Harry saw them.

"Step on it," he said to a taxicab driver, in front of the club. Up Broadway, through Central Park, ignoring traffic signals and plunging around street cars, went the cab with the slayer of Stanford White standing on the running board and yelling "whoopie."

Corners were taken on two wheels and a number of pedestrians made flying leaps for safety.

After a chase through Central Park, Thaw returned to his starting point, aglow with the excitement of the ride. He fraternized with the pretty little girls in the chorus, and made a friend for life of one of them by telling her:

"My dear, you look exactly like Lillian Russell when she was young."

Harry was uncommunicative about his plans.

"I'm back," he said, "and not on business either. I don't know how long I'll stay."

KLANSMEN EJECTED FROM TWO PLACES

Boston, Mass., June 11.—Official Boston muzzled its every authoritative department to prevent a meeting of the Ku-Klux Klan last night and today city officials from the mayor's office down are planning to offset any future conclaves of the hooded knights.

Police, fire and city officials of half a dozen municipal departments swooped down on a meeting of men in Wallace Hall of the Calcedonian building, 53 Berkeley street, South End. It was represented as a meeting of the Monday Night Club but police declared it was a Klan meeting. Later the same group of men were expelled from the Crawford chambers, 5 Hanover street, West End.

Violation of the fire laws was given as the reason for ejecting both meetings.

New Trouble Attributed by German Leaders to Continued Occupation of Ruhr Section—165,000 Workers to be Dismissed.

Dr. Thayer Will Stay at Napanoch

Efficient Superintendent of Institution for Defective Delinquents Declines Position of Superintendent of Prisons of Maryland.

A despatch from Napanoch states that Dr. W. N. Thayer, warden of the Napanoch Institution for Defective Delinquents, has been tentatively offered the position of superintendent of prisons of Maryland.

When questioned concerning the offer, Dr. Thayer said "I feel highly honored to have this offer presented to me, with the salary running as it does into five figures, and I feel that there is a great field for prison development in that state. However, I am in no position at the present to say whether or not I am going to take the offer. There are several things to consider. First, I have not been officially notified by the authorities of the state that they want my services, but have received word from unofficial sources that I will be asked. I am waiting to hear definite notification early next week, at which time I shall be able to say if I am going to take the position."

"Another thing which I must consider," he continued, "is the fact that I have been in the service of New York State for 20 years, and in years more, will be able to retire on a pension. Of course, if I accept the Maryland job, I waive all right to a New York pension."

Sea Expedition For Amundsen

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Oslo, June 11.—Norwegian friends of Captain Roald Amundsen were still hopeful today that the United States will aid in the search in the polar region for the missing Amundsen-Ellsworth North Pole flyers.

There is a possibility a sea expedition may go north prepared to remain all winter in the Arctic and be equipped with sledges to search for Amundsen. It would be desirable that hydroplanes be included for reconnaissance.

This was brought out today in comment by the Norwegian newspaper Tidens, which discussed the refusal of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur to allow air craft to join the several relief expeditions.

OKLAHOMA RIOTERS CALL OUT GUARDSMEN

Henrietta, Okla., June 11.—The fixed bayonets of National guardsmen, patrolling the streets here, brought quiet to this little town today following a night of terror as union and non-union forces among the miners clashed in open rioting throughout the town. Several men were injured.

Five men, said to be members of the United Mine Workers of America, were held under $20,000 bond today in connection with the disturbances.

Police say they led an attack on a mineer who they had heard declared he would accept work in one of the open shop mines here.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE PRINTING PRESS

Teddy's father owned a newspaper and some day when Teddy grew older he was going to own a newspaper, too. Maybe he would share with his daddy, or his daddy would share with him.

Either way it would be all right. They would work together and others would work with them. They would be most fearfully busy all the time but they would always enjoy themselves.

No matter how hard they worked it would be fun. For there would be so many excitements. There would be news to gather and stories to write.

Teddy knew how news was gathered. It wasn't just picked up as one picked up or gathered flowers, or vegetables. You telephoned and you went around and talked to people and people came around and talked to you and they told you they had had a party, or that they were going to have a party and they told you who the guests had been and what refreshments were served. And then everyone's name was in the paper and that was fun, for one's name looked so nice in the paper always. Much nicer than in everyday, ordinary speech.

There would be jobs sent out—programs printed and circulars telling of some big event that was going to happen, and little boys would come and take these about, just as Teddy sometimes did now.

Then there would be a particularly big day in the week when the paper went to press and a man stood by it and watched the papers come off, covered with all the news, all so neatly printed in columns of type.

Teddy had been over the office many times. He knew all about it. When they were busy he didn't bother to ask questions or to get in the way, but sometimes when they had a little time they would explain how everything was put together and how it came out as it did.

There was a beautiful smell of ink and presses and machinery about his daddy's office. It was a very glorious place.

Then one day his daddy told him that they were expecting a big press. The one they had would still be used for some jobs but a bigger one was coming upon which to print the paper. The paper had grown in size and in popularity and Teddy's daddy was very happy, for the paper to him was like a human being. He looked up to it—he wanted to do his best for it—he wanted it to be as perfect as it could be, always improving; always doing his utmost for it.

Teddy had seen his father often of late with pencil and paper setting down figures and when his father started to jot down figures it always meant that sooner or later something new would be added to the office.

Now it would be a big press. Teddy was told that it had started. It was on its way. It would take a week to travel from its home where it had been made to his daddy's office.

But in the meantime his daddy's office was a busy place. A great pit was dug in the earth down below the floor of the office; and a foundation of bricks all put together with lovely soft, squally clay which would dry and keep them in place, was put about the pit.

Then everything was in readiness. And then the press arrived. It came in a closed car upon the railway tracks and an engine pulled its car along with others. Oh, what a monster it was, what a gorgeous, jolly, human, wonderful monster!

Teddy loved it at once. He had loved it ever since he had heard it was coming to them, and that it had started on its way.

Every day, every night, he had thought about it. He had wondered if it was having a comfortable journey. He hoped it was.

It seemed strange that it wouldn't want anything to eat all the time, until it was fed great rolls of paper upon which to print news.

But Teddy felt quite certain the press was thrilled, too, that it was coming to lead an active life in his daddy's office.

He was quite certain of that. And when he saw the big press, so splendid, so powerful, so strong, a lump came in his throat and he blushed a little as the press wouldn't see his moist eyes, and he said:

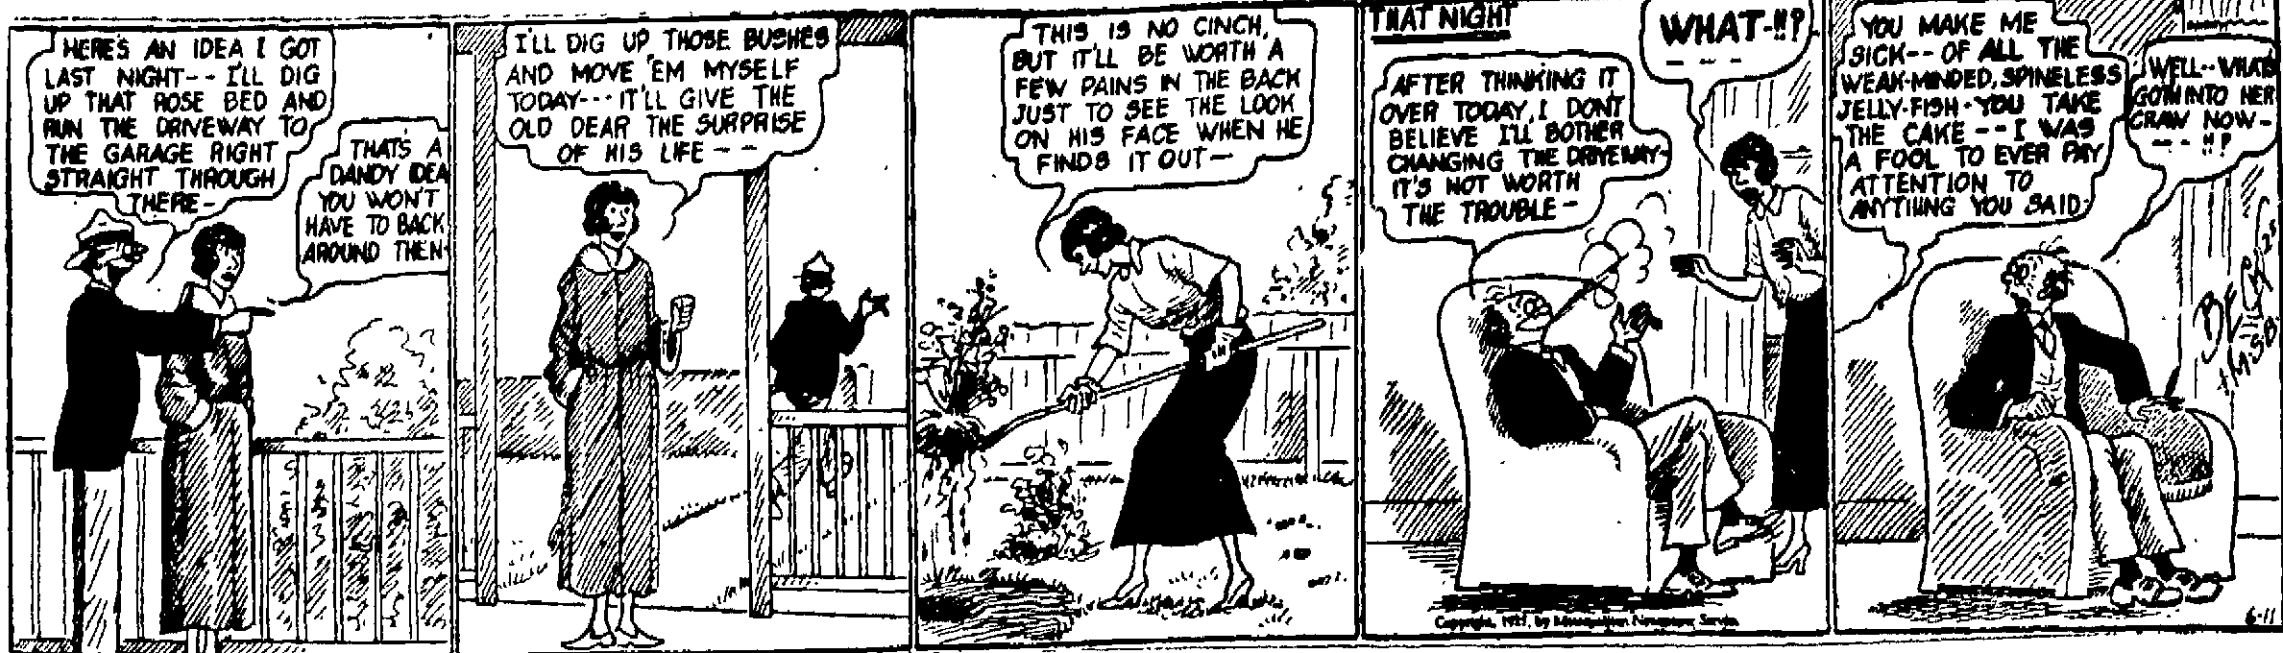

"Great, big press! My daddy's so glad to have you. Just do wonders for him, won't you? You great, big press!"

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Friendly Indians

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

ONE DAY IN THE SPRING OF 1621 A STRANGE INDIAN CAME TO PLYMOUTH AND STARTLED THE SETTLERS BY SAYING "WELCOME, ENGLISHMEN." HIS NAME WAS SAMOSET AND HE CAME FROM THE TRIBE OF WAMPAUGS.

THE NEXT TIME SAMOSET CAME HE BROUGHT WITH HIM ANOTHER INDIAN NAMED SQUANTO. SQUANTO HAD BEEN TAKEN TO ENGLAND BY FISHERMEN WHEN A BOY AND KNEW THE WAYS AND LANGUAGE OF WHITE MEN.

SQUANTO HELPED THE SETTLERS IN MANY WAYS—HE TAUGHT THEM HOW TO PLANT CORN, USING FISH FOR FERTILIZER, AND ACTED AS INTERPRETER IN THEIR DEALINGS WITH THE INDIANS.

ONE DAY MASSASOIT, THE CHIEF OF THE WAMPAUGS, CAME TO VISIT THE PLYMOUTH COLONY. THE INDIANS GREETED HIM WITH A MILITARY DISPLAY WHICH GREATLY PLEASED THE INDIANS.

DECLARING HIS FRIENDSHIP FOR THE WHITE MEN, MASSASOIT MADE A TREATY OF PEACE WITH GOVERNOR BRADFORD THAT WAS HONORABLY KEPT FOR FIFTY YEARS.

IN THE FALL OF 1621 THE PILGRIMS REAPED A BOUNTIFUL HARVEST AND SET ASIDE A DAY TO GIVE THANKS TO GOD—THE INDIANS CAME BRINGING WILD TURKEYS FOR THE FEAST—SO BEGAN OUR NATIONAL CUSTOM OF CELEBRATING THANKSGIVING DAY.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Life is not made out of money, and friendship, and talent, and patronage, and family influences, and good health, and good nature; it is made out of faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, gentleness and brotherly kindness and love—Innager.

FEEDING THE FAMILY

How often we hear the remark, "I wish I knew something different to serve for dinner." Monotony is the bugbear of the menu planner. Even when money is not taken into consideration, variety is not easy to furnish.

Fresh liver, tongues of calf and lamb, brains, sweetbreads, and kidneys for those who like them are all palatable meats and serve to add variety.

Potted Liver.—Use the liver of a young animal, either calf, lamb or pig. Cut the liver into strips and brown three minutes in hot fat. Cook slowly in highly seasoned stock until very tender. Use just enough liquid to keep the meat from burning. Rub through a coarse sieve. Season to taste and add enough melted butter to make the meat of the consistency to pack. Pack in jars and cover with melted butter or paraffin.

Stuffed Liver.—With a sharp knife make a pocket in the liver, commencing at the thick end. Fill this with stuffing made of bread crumbs highly seasoned, adding a little onion if desired. Skewer the open end and lay the upper side with strips of pork, using a larding needle or laying the strips in slashes made in the liver. Melt a tablespoonful of fat, add one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, three cups of meat stock, or boiling water to which two tea-spoonsful of beef extract has been added. Pour this over the liver. Bake one hour and a half, basting with the sauce about every ten minutes. Serve with fried onions or peppers.

Sweetbreads may be creamed, served in timbale cases, or sautéed in butter and served with tartare sauce. Creamed with mushrooms they are delicious and are considered a great delicacy.

As a salad, parboiled in slightly acid water, cool, cut into cubes, combine with celery and mayonnaise and serve on lettuce. Brown bread sandwiches make a nice accompaniment to this salad.

LAODICE.

Was the daughter of Priam, king of Troy and of his wife, Hecuba, who fell in love with Aeneas, son of Thetis, who came to Troy to demand the restoration of Helen to Menelaus. She had a son called Neleus by him. She afterwards married Hecuba, king of Mysia. Laodice is said to have thrown herself from the top of a tower when Troy was taken by the Greeks.

ROGER BACON.

Roger Bacon, the first great English scientist, died 621 years ago today. The exact date of his birth is unknown. He was persecuted and condemned for his liberal religious views, and much of his work was destroyed. It is certain that he was centuries ahead of his time in his knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and mechanics.

From 1277 until a short time before his death he was in prison. He is said to have invented the camera obscura, the air pump and the diving bell, and he was acquainted with the use of optical lenses and the nature of gunpowder.

THE NORTHWEST'S FIRST CHURCH.

The first Protestant church in the northwest was organized at a meeting held in the barracks at Fort Snelling, Minn., ninety years ago today, June 11, 1833.

The Rev. Thomas S. Williamson officiated at the meeting, at which a Presbyterian organization was completed, with army officers, fur traders and pioneer settlers as elders and church leaders. Three days later there was a service for twenty-two of the new congregation, and the church was later recognized as the Oak Grove Church, and eventually merged with the First Presbyterian Church of Minneapolis. Two years before the founding of this church the Rev. W. T. Brewster had at Leech Lake the first Protestant mission among the Northwest Indians. Religious services, both Catholic and Protestant, had previously been held at the Scotch settlement at Pembina, the Swiss colony near Fort Snelling and at various Indian camps, but no formal church organization had been perfected by any Protestant denomination.

It was a log cabin built on the site of St. Paul by a Catholic priest that gave its name to the Minnesota capital.

Cost of Arms Changed

The eagle and the sword on the West Point coat of arms has been reversed. For thirty years the coat of arms consisted of a perpendicular striped shield, bearing on its face a helmet of Mars through which a sword ran diagonally downward from the right or "dexter" side. Surmounting it was an American eagle.

Combination of Print,
Border Effect, Flounces

The alternation of black and white is cleverly managed in this attractive dress by the utilization of print, with a border effect formed by a dark ground, then by the addition of two plaited flounces. A narrow belt is worn at the back.

Jumper Frocks Exploits Popular Plaited Skirt

The sports frock now has an unquestioned place in every new season's mode, and Paris, which once lagged a little in that department of dress, has advanced rapidly and now designs models which are quite appropriate for the English and American sportswoman. The jumper frock, dignified by such designers as Chanel, Lanvin, Worth and Premet, is the typical and most modish of the French sports costumes.

The slim contour is basically adhered to in spring sportswear, although plaits add to the skirt that width which is so necessary to the athlete. Besides the plaited skirt some of Lanvin's jumper models attain width through a circular cut.

Crepella, tweed, kasha, wool jersey, cambray and English suitings are the outstanding materials of the jumper frock. Gray, yellow and the woolen mixtures are the principal colors.

The diversification of detail which is so typical of the spring models again finds expression in the jumper frock. Here are some typical variations: A jumper and skirt costume has a trouser skirt which is concealed by a loose hanging panel. Sports ensembles feature jumper frocks with broad coats. Sweater jumpers are accompanied by short coats.

Wear Wide Crush Belts With Chic Sports Suits

Wide crush belts of suede are much liked to wear with sports suits. They are lined with some soft material or are without lining, and have usually a large suede covered buckle or one of the new fancy metal clasps. Suede bags of all sorts and sizes are very fashionable. Some of the latest things in purse bags are of suede, made quite plain or ornamented only with a metal monogram or a clasp of enamel alone or set with jewels. The handsomest of these bags are flat and square, or envelope shape, with a strap handle, and of medium size. They are to be had in many colors, tan, mode, gray, green and scarlet. This type of bag in white suede, sometimes trimmed with gold, will carry over for summer. Practical purses that may be carried with the best gowns for morning or afternoon are made of fine grain costly leather, lined with suede or mottre, of Russian calf in a color, bound with a lighter colored skin, and of satin. The plain exteriors of these bags contrast sharply to the ornate French novelties that have had a mad vogue, and are much preferred by smart Americans, particularly in spring and summer.

Hosiery Light in Tint

New and more attractive styles in hosiery are being offered with the latest lingerie. The fashionable golf stockings have made usual the sherry stripes and checks which in the past year have grown more pronounced. Black stockings have been passed for two seasons, and one seldom sees them now except as they are worn with wearing dress. Instead the tan, gray, beige, champagne and flesh are worn with black shoes and with a costume of any color.

Old-Time Morning Glory

The morning glory appeals strongly to some of the dressmakers and milliners—the contrivances you may prefer to call it. Paganini came to have adopted it as his favorite flower for spring, using it in embroidery, in painted designs and applied in silk and tulle on the frocks in his spring collection. One of his most charming dance frocks is of mauve georgette and silver lace with morning glories forming the belt.

Famous Executioner

Jack Ketch, who died in 1684, was shown in England as an executioner. When Patch and Judy was introduced in England, shortly before Jack's death, his name was quickly associated with the execution of the popular.

Soviet Laughs at Talk of Plot

Does Not Believe Other Nations Have Conspired to Cut Off Credits and Raw Materials—London's Trade With America Large.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Moscow, June 11.—Soviet Russia views with equanimity and skepticism reports that there exists an organized conspiracy on the part of other nations to cut off Soviet credits and raw materials. Finance Minister Sokolnikoff laughed at the reports in an interview with International News Service today.

"There are no signs of an organized effort to cut off our credits," he declared.
"In the first place, such a blockade would not be successful without the United States participating, and America will not participate. We are too good a customer. Our recent purchases of cotton in the United States, to the extent of $55,000,000, are similar expenditure made by the Soviet government for this commodity."

"Similarly our purchases of American agricultural machinery and automobiles are too large to be 'starved.'"

Costly Fishing

The high cost of salmon fishing in private Scottish waters has come higher this year. For some reason the fish have refused to provide sport for the wealthy anglers as in other seasons, says a writer in the New York World. The salmon population of the River Spey this year was estimated at 300, compared with approximately 2,000 in normal seasons.
A sportsman is said to have paid $2.50 weekly for the privilege of using the fishing rod. He remained five weeks and caught one fish at a cost of $12.50.

Ancient Gates and Weirs

On the Exeter (England) ship canal gates were recently removed which had been in continuous duty for 400 years. Even this, however, was not the oldest waterway contrivance in existence in Great Britain. An ancient stone weir, dating from 1100, was adapted a year or two since to drive machinery for supplying Exeter with electricity, and part of the canal connecting the Trent and William navigations in the Fens dyke, which the Romans cut during their occupation of Britain.

THE SHIPPING BOARD.

It has taken a long time to dispel one of the greatest and most expensive myths built up by the last Democratic administration but the country may thank President Coolidge that the truth is about to prevail at last and that an annual waste of something like $50,000,000 is about to be terminated. We refer to the shipping board.

In the history of the world it is doubtful if any single organization ever squandered more of a people's money than this precious institution. Organized as a war measure it was a failure from the very beginning. Although more than $2,000,000,000 of taxpayers' money were dumped into this venture not a single ton of freight nor a single American troop crossed the sea in a bottom constructed under the auspices of the board during the war. We were promised by Chairman Hurley 9,000,000 tons of shipping in 1918—and we did not get a single ton.

When the war was over instead of scuttling the entire organization the office holders and politicians insisted that the board should be maintained for the purpose of keeping the American flag on the seven seas. The venture has been costing the country upwards of $50,000,000 a year for more than seven years while a corps of high priced press agents have been deceiving the public concerning the balance sheets. The scrapping process is under way and the sooner it is terminated the sooner the drain on the public purse will cease.

There are two lessons which the country should never forget as a result of this expensive venture. The first is that government ownership, as far as America is concerned is bound to fail. There is nothing in our history to justify it. The second is that until Americans are willing to leave their homes and go to sea at wages which satisfy Europeans or Orientals it is futile to expect to compete with certain maritime powers—unless of course the country agrees to a government subsidy. When water runs uphill we may expect to see the American flag, in times of peace, supplanting the British and German flags on the high seas.

HEAT VICTIMS MOSTLY MEN.

The records as to recent prostrations and deaths from the excessive heat show not only that the fatally stricken had previously suffered from some kind of disease in most cases, but that the victims were mostly men—more than ten men to one woman in New York city, for example. One question naturally suggested by the showing is, do women ordinarily endure hardship better and live longer than men? This question is answered in the affirmative by firms selling annuities when they require of women a higher rate than of men, as they usually do. Presumably this difference is based on the reasonable assumption that the life of the family's breadwinner is more wearing, more depressed by anxiety, than that of women whose cares are confined to the household.

As regards heat prostrations, obviously there are two reasons why more men are victims than women. One of these is that many more men than women are forced to do hard physical labor out of doors, no matter what the temperature or humidity may be. The other reason is that women more readily adjust themselves to the weather in the matter of their clothing, which is lighter than that of men in all seasons and particularly in summer. This is more true now than ever. In former times the average man wore heavier under and outer clothing in summer than in winter. Now vast multitudes of men wear the same weight of both under and outer clothing at all seasons, harkening to the assurance of the tailor or "ready-made" dealer that "you can wear this the year round"—a convenient and money-saving but unwise habit.

It used to be our boast that the United States was the place where poor people could be more comfortable and get more out of life than anywhere else in the world, but from her observation Mrs. Dean concludes that "nobody can be poor and live there"—meaning, in part, perhaps, that everybody feels compelled to have a car, a radio set and what not even when the money to pay for them is lacking.

The President urges the States to enforce the Volstead law so that the Federal power will not have to step in and do it for them—which suggests as a pertinent question whether the Washington government has been any more successful in the task than the State governments.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

MEDICINE NOT AN EXACT SCIENCE.

A medical writer a few years ago pointed out to his colleagues, that in their endeavor to get medicine down to an exact science, by getting it away from superstition, they had allowed the pendulum to swing too far in the other direction. In other words there does not always need to be a definite physical cause in the body itself to bring on certain symptoms. That the mind itself, can react to certain outside influences, and the body will show the effect.

Our physiologists are ready to admit that the mind can wonderfully influence the body, and bring about definite changes in the circulation of the blood, in the stomach and intestine, by stimulating or depressing the sympathetic nervous system.

Hunger can bring on a flow of saliva and also of stomach juice. Fear can bring on an involuntary flow of urine, and so forth.

Some of our research men have been able to demonstrate that emotional states can also affect the secretion in the ductless glands that is in the thyroid in the neck, and the adrenal situated on top of kidneys.

Also that fear and exhaustion "produce almost identical changes in the brain tissue."

It is just along these lines in the past five or ten years that wonderful strides have been made. Some of our older physicians were wont to make up their minds quickly on a diagnosis. They persuaded themselves often that as no organic condition appeared to be present, that no more need be done about it, and nothing therefore need be said to the patient. This sometimes was of help in itself in certain types of nervous cases, but it would hardly be effective at present.

The thoughtful physician nowadays must make a complete study of his patient, and separate the actual trouble from the imaginary. The imaginary illness needs even more careful treatment than the real.

It is here that the "understanding" mind in the physician, with personality, will bring results that would have been impossible a few years ago.

Drownings in Shallow Streams

Expert Warns Against Water Holes, Currents and Diving Into Water of Only Moderate Depth.

This is the final article in the series of twelve which have been written to diminish the number of swimming fatalities during the summer season.

Lesson 12—Bathing Accidents in Rivers and Streams.

By Commodore W. E. Longfellow, Life-Saving Expert, American National Red Cross.

(Written for International News Service.)

Drownings in rivers or streams where there is current occur sometimes to waders in comparatively shallow streams who wade with the current and step into holes. Where the water is over the hips the bather has very little control over his actions. The current against the trunk keeps on pushing him into deeper water. If a non-swimmer, he may drown if the hole is a big one. But if he wades against the current and walks into a hole the stream will usually enable him to drift back to shallow water, where he can regain his footing. Usually the wader has his hands in the air and this works against him. If the hands were in the water, by pushing them downward he could instantly get his head out to catch a breath and call for help. The safest place to carry the hands is on the surface, ready for a stroke, and neither under nor above the water.

Shallow Water Diving.
If sinking to bottom keep your head and exhale gently and you will touch bottom with your feet and it will be easy to push up and catch a breath. Indeed, a non-swimmer thus bobs up and down exhaling as he sinks and catching a breath when his head emerges for a long time, without taking in a drop of water.

Another type of river accident is caused by diving into water which is too shallow. A broken neck or dislocated vertebrae may result. If stunned, get the injured man out and move carefully on a door or plank, in case the spine may be injured.

If the water is always dark and muddy, always investigate the depths before diving. Terrible injuries can be caused by diving into snags, stumps, rocks or oyster shells. It's better to cut your feet in investigating than to punch a hole in your skull. Beware of diving or swimming in uncharted waters. Stick with the crowd. It's much safer.

Origin of Chapels

The word chapel comes from cap, a chest. The word was originally applied to the chest in which the relics of a saint were deposited, afterwards to the apartment in a church or cathedral in which the chest was kept. These chapels were dedicated separately, but were known by the name of the saint whose relics they contained.

Suffered for 15 years with constipation—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings relief in 3 weeks

Tried everything. Even operation. Only Kellogg's helped him.

Constipation paved the way to many harrowing diseases. But Mr. Williams' letter carries a message of cheer:

"I have been using your ALL-BRAN for the past three weeks and it has done more for me than anything I have tried in the past fifteen years. I was troubled with hemorrhoids for years. About 18 months ago I was operated on with very little relief. I tried everything under the sun. Then my wife suggested Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I say truthfully that it is the only thing that ever gave me relief."

Yours truly,
L. T. WILLIAMS,

Annual Dairy League Meeting

Well Known Financier to Address League Dairymen at Annual Meeting on June 16—First Event of Its Kind for New York City.

Francis H. Sisson of New York city, well known banker and public speaker, will be one of the guests of honor and principal outside speaker at the annual meeting of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., to be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York on June 18. Mr. Sisson is vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, whose offices are at 140 Broadway, and is one of the best known bankers in the Metropolis. He is also a noted writer and speaker on economic subjects.

Mrs. Ruby Green Smith, secretary of the New York State Federation of Home Bureaus, and one of the best known leaders among rural women of the Empire State, will also address the dairymen. Mrs. Smith has recently been appointed to the advisory committee of the newly organized home department of the league.

Mr. Sisson's address and other addresses together with the annual reports of the officers will be given at the afternoon session, which will begin at 12:30 o'clock, eastern standard time. The forenoon session will be taken up largely with routine matters incident to the annual business convention of the organization.

The selection of Mr. Sisson to address the 2,000 practical dairymen who will attend this meeting, the first of its kind to be held in New York city, is especially appropriate because of the unusual financial record which this cooperative association has made. Few people probably realize that New York is the headquarters of the largest cooperative marketing association in the world. The success of the organization has been due largely to the strong and conservative financial policy followed from the beginning.

The 65,000 dairy farmers of this organization own collectively free and clear more than $10,000,000 worth of milk plant properties. Last year the gross sales of milk and milk products amounted to more than $65,000,000 the greater part of which consisted of fluid milk sold to meet New York city's daily fluid milk demands. Members of the association have furnished all the necessary capital for its operation.

ations from the beginning. For this money which these dairy farmers have furnished to their organization for its development and growth they hold certificates of indebtedness due in five years from date of issue and bear six per cent interest. Recently the association has offered to purchase large blocks of these certificates but the farmers have been loathe to part with them owing to the stability and value of the investment.

The dairymen's league is the biggest single organization supplying New York city's tremendous daily needs for fluid milk. In cooperation with the Board of Health it has placed unusual restrictions around the production and distribution of its milk, to insure the people of the metropolis a pure and uninterrupted daily supply the year around of this most valuable of all food commodities.

While its principal aim has been to obtain for its members better prices for milk, it has also worked consistently for a more uniformly high quality of milk for the great army of consumers in the cities. The association has realized from the beginning that it was dealing with a food product of unusual health value to all classes especially children.

The present officers of the association are: G. W. Slocum, Milton, Pa., president; John D. Miller, Susquehanna, Pa., first vice-president; John D. Smith, Walton, N. Y., second vice-president; J. A. Coulter, Bellville, N. Y., secretary; Chester Young, Napa, N. Y., treasurer. The business is managed by an executive committee consisting of five members chosen from the board of directors of whom the president is chairman ex-officio. The personnel of this committee is as follows: G. W. Slocum, J. A. Coulter, Paul Smith, Fred Sexauer, W. U. Rixford. The members of the organization, all of whom must be actual producing dairymen, are scattered throughout New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the western section of New England.

About 1,000 delegates from as many local associations will attend the meeting. In addition to this there are probably 1,000 members and invited guests who will attend. It will be the first time a business convention of actual farmers has been held in New York city.

Allies Owe 57% Of National Debt

Payment Over Period of 62 Years Would Equal One-Fifth of Income Tax Annually.

New York, June 11.—Settlement of the foreign government debts to the United States, if all were funded on the same terms as those accorded Great Britain, could lighten the total burden of the American taxpayer annually by about 4.6 per cent during the sixty-two year period of payment, according to the preliminary report on the economic aspects of the inter-Ally debt problem issued by the National Industrial Conference Board, 247 Park avenue, New York.

If applied exclusively to the Federal income tax, such payments would permit a reduction of about 20 per cent or one-fifth of the total of Federal income taxes levied annually.

They would mean for the debtor countries, however, an added annual tax burden likely to be about twice as large as the probable relief to the American taxpayer.

The preliminary report of the Conference Board dealing with the debt problem in its relation to taxation and industry in the United States and the debtor nations, will be submitted at the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce at Brussels, Belgium, in June for discussion by Fred I. Kent, vice-president of the Bankers Trust Company, of New York and treasurer of the National Industrial Conference Board.

57 Per Cent of U. S. National Debt.

The total amount of inter-ally debts owed the United States by foreign governments, according to the report, at present represents approximately 57 per cent of the total national debt of the United States, and about 60 per cent of its war debt. The total annual receipts on account of debt payments, if funded on the same basis as the British debt, would vary from $422 millions in the earlier part of the period to about $486 millions in the latter, representing about 13.1 per cent of the total amount of taxes collected by the Federal government during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924.

By provision of Congress, however, only that portion of the payments representing interest would be available for immediate tax reduction, repayment of principal being applicable only to retirement of our national debt. While diminution of the public debt will gradually diminish interest charges, and hence ultimately reduce the tax burden, this, says the report, necessarily will be a slow process. The amount available for tax reduction in the near future would be about $350 millions a year, or 10.5 per cent of the total Federal tax bill in 1924.

But Federal taxes, the Board analysis shows, at present make up only the smaller part of the American taxpayer's total burden. State and local taxation constitute about three-fifths of his total annual tax bill, are steadily increasing, and would not be affected by foreign debt payments. Hence, the report points out, the annual tax relief from all inter-ally debt payments, on basis of the British terms, would probably not exceed 4.6 per cent ($3.50 per capita) or one-twentieth of the total annual tax bill, even if the payments were used for Federal tax reduction and not for new Federal expenditures.

Effect on Debtor Countries.

Analyzing the effect of such payments on the debtor countries, the Conference Board finds that taxation in the United Kingdom at present represents 23.2 per cent of the national income, 20.9 per cent in France, 19.1 per cent in Italy, and 17 per cent in Belgium, as compared with 11.5 per cent in the United States. Payment of the debts, if made on the same as the British terms, would necessitate, according to the report, an increase of from nine per cent to ten per cent in present taxation, which must remain high in any case, in order to carry the burden of the war debts of these countries.

The report points out that taxes raised for payment of external obligations differ in effect from taxes levied for paying internal debts, inasmuch as the former diminish the net national wealth and resources. In the United States, tax payments, required to carry the unpaid war debt merely mean redistribution of wealth, as the purchasing power in this case does not leave the country.

Since, in the debtor countries, a considerable part of such taxation would have to be raised by further taxing consumption, the debt payments may also mean a depression of the standard of living in these countries, the report declares.

Meal in a Monument

Most visitors to Windsor Great park have seen the equestrian statue of George III which stands at the far end of the Broad walk.

It is a huge statue, and when it was erected in 1823 the horse's body was first set up, then its head fixed, and lastly the figure of the king was sent up upon his steed. Just before the head was fixed one of the officials of the castle, and six friends, had dinner inside the body of the horse. After all parts of the statue had been closed up and hermetically sealed, they remembered that a short ladder had been left inside. That ladder is there still.—London Tit-Bits.

Improved Sandals

Spring sandals strapped on like skates and with two stout steel coils fastened between the bottom and a lower leather-padded sole, are now on the market for boys' and girls' amusement. They are made in five different sizes and stiffness of springs for small and larger children, and the springs are so flexible that there is practically no danger of turning the ankle. Walking or jumping with them is said to strengthen the muscles of the feet and legs and besides providing healthful sport the sandals lead to the development of new games for the playground.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Woman Tramps Country 2 Years Dressed as Man

St. Louis, Mo.—How a woman has been tramping throughout the country in the guise of a man for two years was revealed here last night when a real transient sought shelter at a police station. Close questioning revealed that "he" was Grace Over, formerly of White Eagle, Ohio, who dressed in men's clothing, because she could not obtain employment. Dressed in an old suit, tattered work shoes and cap, and with her hair cut short, she said she had passed as a man since the death of her parents several years ago.

RUSH TO GOLD FIELDS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Alleged New Discovery in Northwest arm Section Lures Prospectors to Seek Riches.

Wrangell, Alaska.—Breaking of the ice in the Stikine river and the consequent opening of water travel was the signal for the exodus of a large number of gold seekers who have gathered here on their way to newly discovered fields in northwestern British Columbia.

Three boatloads of prospectors, the first to leave, have started out for Telegraph, B. C. From Telegraph, which is the head of navigation, they were to travel by automobile to Dease lake, which is within a few miles of the new gold territory near Cassiar creek. More than 150 tons, including caterpillar tractors, automobile trucks, horses and oxen, were to accompany the stampede to Cassiar.

A noticeable feature of the rush is that only a small number of the prospectors are new to Alaska, practically all being experienced sordoughs.

Customs officials representing both Canadian and American governments have been here some time making arrangements to expedite the passage of the stampede over the international boundary. Besides the local customs representative, F. W. J. Reed of Seattle, M. S. Whittier of Juneau and F. J. Vandewall of Skagway, are American customs officers. T. Mason and J. E. Miller of Victoria, B. C., are here for the Canadian officers. A motion picture photographer is here filming the preparations for the stampede. The river schedule after this week calls for a boat from Wrangell up the river every eight hours.

A thousand men have munched through from Wrangell to Cassiar, British Columbia, since Christmas to seek gold in that region, Oscar Sither, Petersburg lumberman, declared. Cassiar is 150 miles up the Stikine river from Wrangell.

"Hundreds of sordoughs camped at Wrangell when I left April 29, were waiting for the river to clear of ice so they could make the dash by boat," Sither declared.

"Wrangell stories were that 1,000 men munched through since Christmas in spite of snow and ice," he said. "No reports have come back and no one knows what is there, but last fall rumors came out of Cassiar and spread over Alaska and British Columbia that a 25-mile strip of rich placer gravel had been found on a bar in Cassiar creek. Sordoughs and prospectors have been collecting for the spring rush ever since."

Europe More Hospitable to Motoring Americans

Geneva.—Promoters of tourist trade in Europe are going out of their way to make easier the movements of parties traveling in automobiles. Free spending Americans are particularly invited to take notice, and to come and bring their cars and their money.

An international road traffic conference will be held in Paris next fall. It will then be proposed to issue double certificates, one for the driver and one for the car, so the driver can change to another motor without trouble. There are to be international driving certificates for twelve months, facilitating entering and leaving a country as often as desired.

Standard road signs will be adopted, and explained to drivers, and interstate touring will otherwise be made safer and more agreeable.

Public Service Commission Control of Central Hudson System

The Public Service Commission of New York State is a body created to represent the people in their relationship with public utility companies.

Its control extends down into many details of the business. The company is not permitted to issue securities unless the Commission is satisfied that the securities represent adequate assets and earning power.

The Commission has authority to fix rates, to insure customers the lowest possible rates commensurate with good service and at the same time to insure investors a fair return on their money.

The Commission has control over the exercise of franchises granted to public utility companies, and in many respects is in the position of safeguarding the interests of the people who are served.

The Central Hudson System, being a New York State enterprise, in fact a Central Hudson Valley enterprise in every sense of the word, comes under the control of the Commission.

The Commission has taken the stand that it is undesirable for utilities in this state to be managed and controlled by corporations not subject to the Commission's control. In taking this position it recognizes its responsibility to customers and investors.

It should be a source of satisfaction to investors in the Central Hudson System and to the customers of the companies to feel that by reason of the Commission's control their interests are safeguarded.

Success

Success comes through determination, planning, strategy and execution. The wage earners have no royal road to success. They must build their own way, and it must be constructed with the bricks of experience and the mortar of patience. There may be other pathways seemingly strewn with roses, but that only conceal the thorns and pitfalls—James H. Lynch in the Typographical Journal.

HEART BROKEN, NEEDY WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE

Attempts to Kill Her Baby Girl, Also, but Does Not Succeed.

New York.—Trying to kill both herself and her beautiful six-year-old girl, Mrs. Anna Mae Rieger but half succeeded. She, heart-broken and disappointed, died; the child, thanks to the wit of a policeman, lives.

The woman, a nurse, thirty-six, left behind a letter of farewell to the husband from whom she was estranged, a human document, telling a tale of unhappy disillusionment, temptation and bitterness.

Mrs. Rieger lived with the child, Rosalie, in a well-furnished apartment on One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street. Neighbors smelled gas and called the police. Patrolman William Smith found the woman dead in bed. The little daughter's head lay on her breast. Gas was pouring from the burners of the kitchen range.

Fresh Air Applied.

Smith picked up the child, carried it to an open window and administered first aid. When Doctor Lyon arrived from Knickerbocker hospital he said the little girl showed faint signs of life and used a pulmotor. Then he took Rosalie to the hospital, where it is said she will live.

"The police found a pawn ticket for a ring, letters to relatives and a court order directing Rieger to pay his wife $10 a week for the support of his child. There was a French pistol, unloaded, and the letter to the husband. It was addressed to "Mon Thomas" (My Thomas) and read in part:

"I have lost everything in this life but my self-respect and honor. Tom, this is no chorus-girl trick. I'm sorry I grieved you. It is better to take this baby with me. A little girl with no mother and a blackguard father is a pitiful object in this brutal world."

There was a direction that the landlady, Mrs. Gaurer, should keep Mrs. Rieger's belongings until her sister called for them, and the letter went on:

"As for the — and his accomplice, they had better leave off tricking women when they know they are fighting as a tiger fights for its cub—just to stay together with a roof overhead.

Another Crime.

"Tell them to find fairer game next time. Tell them to find women with no children and no heart. Tell the — he has another crime to his credit. He can add murder. He has murdered me. I am nothing but the — puppet."

There was a break in the letter here. It was apparently hastily scrawled in ink. It continued:

"I am getting tired now. I have been up all night crying. I must wash my hair and put my bones in order. Good-by, Tom, and good luck to you."

"Worth — is the —'s number. Invite him to the funeral and ask him to send roses. I love roses. Send my body to Glens Falls. Please bury me in the French cemetery. Please see that Rosalie's body is placed in the coffin with mine."

"See that baby and I will not be parted."

"I died as I lived—alone and deserted."

"Please send my warm watch to my mother for my sister, Mita."

Dogs Save Master from Fall Over Cliff to Death

Bakersfield, Cal.—H. O. Holbright of this city probably owes his life to his two dogs, a Siberian stag hound and a fox terrier. Holbright was returning from a ranch Sunday morning and stopped to fish. He slipped and struck his head on a boulder and fell partly over a cliff. When W. P. Cummings of Kansas City, Mo., arrived, guided by the fox terrier, he found the stag hound dragging Holbright from the brink by the trowser leg. The dogs would not allow Cummings to administer first aid until Holbright spoke to them.

Squash in Doc's Motor Turns Out to Be Cat

Chicago.—Dr. Simon Stern, 3626 South Michigan avenue, couldn't get his car started one morning. Every time he tried the starter the engine let out ear-splitting yowls.

In spite of the rain the doctor had to get out and look at last. As he lifted the hood something that seemed as large as a horse and proved as active as a cyclone jumped off the engine into his face and shot down the street in a streak.

When the doctor recovered he found the tip of a black cat's tail and some scraps of black fur on the engine. He remembered then that he had left the hood up all night.

DROWNS AS SISTER ATTEMPTS RESCUE

Little Girl Is Saved Only by Friend's Heroism.

Chicago.—Ten-year-old Ruth Zemke made a desperate effort to save her brother and a girl chum from drowning in the lake at the foot of Thirty-fourth street. She succeeded in dragging the girl to shore, but her six-year-old brother sank beneath the surface before she could swim to where he was struggling in the water.

Bertha Batinas, eight years old, 3348 Lowe avenue, who was saved by Ruth's heroism, was uninjured as a result of her narrow escape from drowning.

The two girls and the little boy were playing on the shore. The boy began to fling stones in the water, standing on the piling. He lost his balance and fell into the water which was deep at that point.

Bertha screamed and leaning over, attempted to extend a helping hand to the boy in the water. She, too, toppled in. Ruth, the eldest of the trio, was the only one who knew how to swim. She leaped in, seized Bertha by the hair and helped her to climb out.

Then she turned to help her brother. He had sunk beneath the surface and though she dived twice in frantic efforts to find his body the girl was forced to give up the search. Exhausted, she was barely able to climb upon the piling.

Murder Confession

Bared After 80 Years

Rhaca, N. Y.—The fate of a woman who disappeared some eighty years ago became known by a statement made public by Miss Amelia Crum explaining the disappearance of Mrs. Edward H. Ruloff, wife of a man who was hanged in Binghamton for the murder of a store clerk. It was always understood that Ruloff died on the gallows denying that he could explain his wife's disappearance. But the criminal, prior to his execution, did confess to his lawyer that he had murdered his wife and had sunk her body in Cayuga lake, near Tugboat-falls. He placed the body in a chest and weighted it with iron. It was never found.

Ruloff's lawyer, on his deathbed, related the confession to Landon D. Crum, a cousin to Mrs. Ruloff and father of Miss Amelia Crum.

Interest in the mystery was recently aroused by the discovery of a woman's skeleton by excavators near the new State Agriculture college. The theory that it was that of Mrs. Ruloff was disproved when several other skeletons were found, indicating a forgotten graveyard. However, the talk induced Miss Crum to make her statement, clearing up the ancient mystery, all the parties concerned in it being now dead.

A daughter of Ruloff, who disappeared at the same time her mother did, had been given away by the unnatural father, he confessed. She was brought up in Philadelphia, and later married a government employee in Washington.

Prince Sleeps in Park;

Hopes to Win Rich Wife

Bridgeport.—Police seized an old man in rags who passed the night in a park sleeping on a bench, and from his papers he was found to be the former Prince Alexander Romanov-Ochiragov.

He had been wandering from one cheap place to another until he received help from a washerwoman, who gave him food and shelter out of pity. Meanwhile he asked a lawyer to find a rich wife for him, but the lawyer's endeavors were not successful.

Ex-Prince Romanov-Ochiragov formerly served as colonel of a Bavarian cavalry regiment. In 1895 he married against his family's will; he had to renounce his right as Prince Romanov. The marriage was dissolved during the war. He left the German army and married in Vienna a second time, but his wife left him, it is alleged, in consequence of his having squandered her money.

A Vision Realized By Travis Baking Co.

And Now the Realization

THREE years ago when we established our bakery we did so with one persistent purpose in mind. That was to produce the best bread that we could bake—of good wholesome materials: under clean, sanitary working conditions; wrapped to protect its freshness and sweet-smelling goodness from our ovens to your table—and to get the bread to your neighborhood dealer just as soon as possible after baking, in order that he in turn, might get it to you.

We felt confident that if we baked good bread with the wholesome "homey" taste and got it promptly to the grocer that it would please him—and that he in turn would please you, by supplying this bread.

Moreover, we knew that if we could satisfy the bread tastes of the people of this community with a quality product available at all times that we would earn the good will of both dealer and consumer and we pictured an addition to our bakery to take care of the increased business which would result from our successful efforts to supply the best bread and the best service.

And now this dream of ours is realized, because our persistent purpose has been recognized by the community with the result that the facilities of our present plant have been found inadequate to satisfy the demand. In short, the plant was outgrown—and so we have now completed the new addition we have referred to, which doubles our capacity.

The illustration reproduced here shows our present bakery as completed.

To you who have made our success possible, to you who have appreciated our purpose to produce good bread and have shown that appreciation by buying our bread at your grocer's we extend our sincere thanks. We want you to know that we shall go right on keeping the faith as we have always kept it.

We shall go right on making

as good as we know how.

Last October our bread won the Silver Trophy of the Quality Bakers of America, a national organization of independent, non-competitive wholesale bakers, of which we are a member by invitation. We won the trophy because our bread scored the highest in quality in the organization, with the splendid score of 98.1%. Our average quality for the year 1924 was only one-tenth of one per cent lower than the highest score for the entire organization which is confirmation by experts of the goodness of our bread. The families who serve this bread on their tables every day, every meal, appreciate how good our bread is without this expert rating but it is interesting to have this official report.

Leather Is Used for Sports Wear

Suedes for Jumper Frocks; Also as Trimming on Knitted Jackets.

Developing from the original wind-breaker, with its knitted collar, cuffs and waistband, essentially and strictly a garment for sports wear, suède is a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, there have sprung into fashion this spring suède and glaze coats, hats and even dresses that are appropriate for almost any hour of the sports day. From Nice, Cannes and Monte Carlo and the other hubs around which the wheels of style revolve come reports of the most striking uses of leather imaginable. Not only are solid colors seen in vast numbers, but suèdes and glazes printed in the most delicate and intricate of patterns are making their appearance as well.

One of the most striking adaptations of leather seen at Cannes this spring was a tailored suède jacketette and a sports hat of old gold, contrasting with a skirt of almond green. A variation of this costume, which is equally suitable for dress or sports wear, consists of a suède coat of deep red with a suède hat to match. The coat is worn with a flannel frock in periwinkle blue which buttons down the center front. The coat collar is lined with flannel of the same shade as the dress.

In London the fashionable sports-woman has adopted leather for the golf jumper suit and for the motor coat, using a supple skin which is finished after the manner of clogs de chine.

Many and varied are the new creations in which knitted fabrics are combined with leather for sports wear. Knitted jacketettes that are trimmed with leather vie for popularity with suède jackets banded with knitted silk or wool materials. Colors range from the most somber drabs and tans to the brilliant reds, greens, blues and golds, as well as the most delicate of pastel tints. So extensive are the uses of leather that suèdes and glazes are occasionally being used for beach wraps, replacing to some extent the knitted robes that were popular a year or two ago.

Fine lambskins, such as are employed in the making of kid gloves, have found their way into coats, hats and dresses. For these the finest suèdes have been gleaned from the eastern and southern part of this country, France, Greece, the Argentine and various Mediterranean countries as well as from the native sheep of South Africa, the latter producing the genuine capeskin that is used for gloves. These skins are very fine and close in texture and can be shaved to paper thinness without losing their strength.

If you select a suède costume, choose one of the soft pastel shades rather than the deep, brilliant colors. The dyes which produce the pastel tones sink deep into the pelt so that they neither wash out nor brush off with the nap.

Oriental Patterns Are Among Popular Fashions

The most interesting new printed fabrics are combinations of oriental patterns with a very modern twist to their treatment. The gaily printed silk in this summer frock has a Chinese pattern in bright colors on navy blue. The lines of the dress are very simple, so that the print itself is allowed first claim to attention.

Matter of Turndown

A turn-down has a wonderful effect when administered by a pretty woman, but the new hangout hats are the better for it. These beautiful light straw head coverings are usually very simply trimmed, with a distinctive bow and ribbon band.

Ensemble for Little Girl

A coat of blue checked lined with red and white English print and worn over a frock of the printed fabric makes an ensemble for the small daughter that in every way is as smart as that worn by her doll's sister.

Perils of Boston

THAT JABOTS ARE GRACEFUL.

Curiously enough, the jabot always reappears with the return of the tailored suit. It offsets a too mannish suggestion, but is not, however, always found in company with the tailleur.

The jabot frock is a sort of reincarnation of the handkerchief point and winged frock—see Vionnet. Jabots occur anywhere—side, front or back, and sometimes cascade the entire length of the gown, sometimes, too, contrasting with the gown.

A Jabot Frock of Brick Crepe Relieved by Bindings and Kick Pleat of Beige.

When pleated or plain, a contrasting binding frequently emphasizes their grace. The frock sketched is just one of the many versions of the season's "uniform"—the jumper dress. Developed in flat crepes, it is to be found in a wide range of pastel shades, the most popular range being peach, apricot, apple blossom and rose.

Chinese damask, or a self-figured silk is liked for this type of dress—otherwise usually selected in plain surfaces. The exception to this are dresses which combine a figured top and plain skirt, or vice versa.

Widow's Mito Returns; to See Girlhood Home

New York.—Laura Julietta Gottlieb, seventy-seven years old, an inmate of the Denmark Home for the Aged, in Brooklyn, will leave for her home in Copenhagen, which she left 55 years ago.

When Constantia Bruen began his twenty-sixth year as Danish envoy, the Danes in New York begged for the privilege of giving him a reception and a memorial of his services. He agreed to the reception, but he refused any gift. Instead of spending the money for him, he asked the Danes to create a fund to send back to Denmark some old person whose declining years were heavy with homesickness.

The committee selected Mrs. Gottlieb. She was one of the first to work for the home to which misfortune finally sent her. She gave in order that the aged might not be without comfort. She was made secretary of the group which brought the Denmark Home for the Aged into existence.

Eighteen years ago Mrs. Gottlieb's husband died, leaving little money. Then it was that Mrs. Gottlieb became a home inmate.

On June 28 she will leave with a roundtrip ticket in her hand. A white-haired woman, certain to be amazed as much by the changes in Copenhagen as was the young, hopeful bride by the wonder of the new world when she came here 55 years ago.

and Jellies every time

OH, it's so easy now! Before, no matter how experienced you were, you could never be sure—sometimes jelly and jam just didn't turn out. No amount of care seemed to positively safeguard you.

But you never have a failure with Certo—no desperate re-boiling—the most difficult fruits jelly perfectly. For Certo is the substance in fruit that makes it jelly—fruit can't jelly without it.

This jelly-making element is completely lacking in some fruits, others have only a little, and even in the fruits that naturally contain most of it, it gradually diminishes as they ripen. But now, because Certo itself supplies the all-important jelly-making property, you can make your jam and jelly of the richest ripe fruits—those with the finest flavor and loveliest color. You can even use fruits that have in themselves no jelly-making property.

So easy—so quick—no juice and flavor boil away

Less than 15 minutes from fruit to jam or jelly! Certo means that just one minute's active boil is needed. No more standing stirring over a hot stove—no long boiling that reduces the amount of your jelly—no loss in steam of flavor, color and juice.

Certo's brief boil saves you all the fruit that used to boil away. When you count up the cost you will find that with Certo you have half again as many glasses as you ever got from that much fruit. Further Decrease In Employment

More Factory Employees in New York State Released in May—Brick Is Far Behind Last Year.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, June 10.—Factory employment in New York state showed a further decrease of one per cent in May. This is about half as large as the April loss. The curtailment in factory operations which followed the spring improvement is proceeding at a noticeably slower rate. However, certain of the metal industries, principally steel and railroad equipment, continued to report heavy reductions in their forces. In the former these were partly offset by the resumption of operations in a few mills which had closed down in April.

The large improvement during the month, outside of those industries affected by seasonal demands, was in automobiles which are advancing to a point only slightly below the peak of 1924. Allied manufactures followed in line.

As always, seasonal elements were present in the decrease. In the sewing trades more than 3,000 employees were released from the factories reporting to the state. The gains in building materials and some food products affected a smaller number of workers.

This statement was issued by Industrial Commissioner James A. Hamilton today. It is based on payroll reports covering almost half a million workers who represent 55 industries of the state.

Metals again determined the course of factory employment for the month. But decreases in industries such as furniture and pianos were equally important in indicating the widespread nature of the readjustment of recent months. Both these industries, which are relatively free from sharp month to month fluctuations, were a little below May, 1924, when the depression was already well advanced.

Steel Again Leads Decreases.

The changes within the iron and steel mills reporting to the state affected over 1,000 workers though the net loss amounted to only 300. The mills which had curtailed production sharply in April resumed work in May while others dropped hundreds from their payrolls. Some copper mills also made rather heavy reductions. In railroad equipment shops, the severe curtailment of April was practically repeated. Railroad repair shops were uneven, although fewer were employed on the whole. Recent losses in electrical machinery and apparatus have brought employment for this industry below any point in the past two years. Foundries and other machine shops have been keeping steady, but May brought a small reduction. Conditions were irregular in the factories making instruments and appliances. Lenses, cutlery and tool firms continued to let more employees go, but in some of the cutlery plants this followed an unusually active season.

Brick Far Behind 1924.

A small gain in May brought employment in the brick yards to a point 40 per cent below the corresponding month in 1924 the peak of last year. House trim gained in New York city but lost upstate and is about 15 per cent below a year ago. Cement workers were well off. The reorganization of a plant in May meant that employment rose above any month in 1924.

Chemicals exerted a steady influence. Drugs and household chemicals lost slightly but industrial chemicals stayed even although they are relatively low. Changes in soap factories tended to offset each other. The only large decrease for the group was in the dye plants where employees have been let go for several months. Fertilizers were seasonally less active.

Textiles Irregular.

There were few large changes within the major textile industries. Silk goods and knit silk products, such as gloves, hosiery and cloth, showed a small net gain. Woolen mills were rather quiet after the reductions of March and April. In the cotton mills there was no established tendency either up or down. It was only the knit goods industry which reported a definite loss after the spring improvement. Greater activity in some of the carpet mills was accompanied by a shut down.

Men's and women's clothing shops continued to adjust forces to meet the seasonal slump. Some of the upstate men's clothing factories, however, began to prepare for the fall. Shirt factories were busier in New York city but showed conflicting tendencies upstate. The straw hat season was over but felt and velvet hat factories started up. Manufacturers of felt slippers were busier but shoe plants again reduced the number on their payrolls. The fur trade was more active.

There were seasonal gains in dairy products, canning and beverages. The approach of the busy season in the last meant more work for the tin foil factories. Meat packing houses and cigar plants took on more employees after recent reductions but biscuit factories again lost slightly. Candy manufacturers let more workers go.

In paper goods, it was the makers of sample cards and paper patterns who slowed down.

Seasonal Loss in New York City.

Factories in New York city reported a decrease in employment of from one to two per cent in May. This keeps the level of employment slightly below a year ago. Slack season in the clothing trades explained the largest part of the loss but there were small reductions scattered through the metals and other industries of the city.

About 2,500 workers were dropped from the payrolls of the clothing factories and modistes also passed their most active month. Shirt manufacturers and makers of sport hats were busier. These industries are better off than a year ago. All silk goods gained. The shoe industry showed a net decrease, partly seasonal.

Metals were also important in the reductions. Some factories turning out instruments of precision had more on their payrolls but most of the metal industries lost, particularly a few machinery and electrical equipment plants.

Furniture and piano factories again released employees. Leather goods and miscellaneous wood products, including paper and pencils, were lower.

The cigar industry improved somewhat after the severe cuts in employment in April. Other food products such as flour, candy and chocolate were less active and hundreds of employees were affected by changes within the baking industry where losses predominated.

Syracuse Holds April's Gain.

In spite of further gains in the automobile industry employment in Syracuse just stayed even from April to May. Some of the automobile factories in this district have not come up to the 1924 scale of operations as well as the industry as a whole. Other metals including steel and office equipment gained slightly. But seasonal reductions in the clothing shops and less activity in the furniture factories tended to offset these increases. Chemicals remained fairly steady but manufacturers of various goods such as paper products and textiles reported fewer workers on their payrolls.

Capitol District Remains Low.

Employment in the Capitol District showed no improvement during May. While the steel industry was more active after the severe curtailment in production in April, further reductions in the railroad equipment shops meant no net gain in the employment of metal workers. Some machinery and electrical apparatus plants also released employees.

Textiles were somewhat irregular and losses in some of the collar factories were larger than the gains in others. A few bakeries operated with smaller forces. Printing and paper goods were the same as in April.

Largest Decrease in Utica.

The downward turn in knit goods caused employment in Utica to drop about two per cent below April. Almost 400 workers were released from the textile mills reporting to the state during the month. Some of the cotton mills as well cut down their forces, but on a smaller scale.

Metals in this district were uneven. In some cases reductions were still being effected. But in the mills where the April readjustments had been particularly severe, production schedules were increased in May. Instruments and office equipment have lost slightly. As in other places the dull season in the clothing shops meant many operatives were dropped from the payrolls.

Steel Important in Buffalo.

Buffalo lost also in May with a decrease of almost two per cent in employment. There was a net loss of nearly 1,000 workers in the metal plants reporting to the state and hundreds more were affected by changes within the various industries.

Large numbers of men were let go in the iron and steel mills of this district and there were losses in ship building, and railroad equipment and repair shops. Automobile production again advanced, although a few plants making parts were less busy and castings fell off sharply. Mineral products gained. Manufacturers of chemicals, furniture and paper goods also reported declines. The food industries, which are important here, had over 150 more employed in the reporting factories. This improvement followed recent losses.

Furniture and Shoes.

Rochester reported a decrease of almost one per cent, largely the result of general reductions in furniture plants and in the majority of the shoe factories.

Several of the men's clothing factories continued to reduce forces, but others started up in preparation for the fall trade. While there were losses in the metals they did not involve many workers except in one or two cases. Chemicals stayed fairly even and food industries showed a very small seasonal gain.

Binghamton Employment Even.

The total volume of employment in Binghamton remained even from April to May. However, the situation changed for different classes of workers. A large part of the cigar makers were taken back this month but workers in the shoe factories and metal trades were released. Reduction in some of the furniture factories were accompanied by gains in others.

Neither a reputation, nor a fence can be strengthened by a coat of whitewash.

Most every landlord knows how well lease rhymes with decease.

But they aren't all, professors. A country store keeper recently made a sale for $1, threw the dollar into the sawdust box under the store, and split in the cash drawer.

What do people do for a guide when they don't have any conscience.

A stitch in time saves embarrassment.

Singing Clubs Sing and Dine

Members of Mendelssohn Club and Euterpe Club of Poughkeepsie dine at Golden Rule Inn—Talk United Open Air Concert.

There was a jolly party at Golden Rule Inn, Ulster Park, Wednesday evening, where a banquet was served and an evening of songs and speeches enjoyed by the participants.

At about 7:30 o'clock, 60 active members of the Mendelssohn Club with 20 associate members joined 20 members of the Euterpe Club of Poughkeepsie, all having motored there to dine and sing.

After a sumptuous chicken dinner had been served by Landlord Greiner to the usual style of Golden Rule Inn excellence, President Charles O'Connor of the Mendelssohn Club called upon Arthur C. Connolly to act as toastmaster. He called upon Judge George Spratt of the Poughkeepsie Euterpe Club who spoke of the friendship between the clubs and of the benefits gained by singing as well as the sociability among the members.

Judge Spratt suggested that in his opinion it would be an excellent thing to merge the singing clubs of Poughkeepsie, Kingston and Saugerties together each year and give a united open air concert to the public. The suggestion met with favor of all present and it was the consensus of opinion that committees be appointed to discuss the matter and make plans for the holding of such a united concert each year.

Boy Scouts Get Canoe from Legion

At the regular meeting of Kingston Post, No. 160, American Legion, it was voted to present the Boy Scouts with a canoe for use at their summer camp. A committee was appointed to provide the canoe.

The American Legion is vitally interested in all young Americans and will take especial pleasure in presenting this canoe to the Boy Scouts as a token of gratitude for the splendid service the various troops rendered in distributing advertising matter during the recent American Legion Memorial Building Campaign.

MUCH DIFFERENCE IN MORAL ATTITUDE

French and English Do Not See Eye to Eye.

The English language and the Anglo-Saxon temper distinguish sharply between manners and morals. Manners are desirable things, excellent things; they should be taught early and constantly maintained; but they are superficial, secondary; and the possession of commendable morals may be sometimes excused if his manners are inadequate. Indeed, there is often a feeling that manners are only superficial, but artificial; that an excess of them indicates insincerity and hypocrisy; and that a finely finished bearing suggests an insufficient moral basis, says a writer in the Youth's Companion.

The French attitude is quite different. In fact, the French have the same word for manners and for morals, and there is, if not a confusion, at least a constant interplay between the two. In French a moralist is not a person who passionately preaches improvement of the spiritual nature, but a student of human life and character and motive. Indeed, the identity of thought goes back beyond the French language to the Latin, in which the word mores, the direct original of our moralis, means primarily manners and customs.

The Anglo-Saxon is naturally scornful of the Latin attitude, assuming that it implies mistaking mere courtesy for solid virtue. At the same time it is by no means certain that there is not a deeper truth in the French view of the matter. Morals deal with our relations to others. Matthew Arnold said that conduct was three-fourths of human life. Arnold's mathematics may be disputable, but at any rate conduct is a very great part of life and conduct is morals and morals is that part of life which is concerned with our dealings with other lives. Now, if we reflect a moment, we shall see that all that is really beautiful and valuable in manners is also a matter of our relations to others. True politeness, true courtesy, are not based on display or effect, but wholly on kindness; on a quick and sure apprehension of what will help others, will soothe them, will make them feel at their ease. The essence of all good manners is to cultivate and to strengthen the habit and the power of putting yourself in another's place. And thus manners and morals are not so far apart after all.

Hour of Death

For some time there has been a prevalent idea that more people die at midnight than at any other hour. This has led to an investigation of the 24,742 natural deaths that occurred in the borough of Manhattan, New York, during 1923. It was found that fewer people died at midnight than at any other hour of the day. The heaviest mortality took place between the hours of 1 and 3 a. m., those small hours of the morning in which doctors have long declared that vitality is at its lowest. The number of deaths were lowest from eight o'clock to midnight. For the 24 hours of the day deaths occurred as follows: 1 a. m., 1,254; 2 a. m., 1,114; 3 a. m., 1,074; 4 a. m., 1,118; 5 a. m., 1,089; 7 a. m., 1,014; 8 a. m., 1,043; 10 a. m., 1,048; 11 a. m., 1,086; noon, 873; 1 p. m., 896; 2 p. m., 1,013; 3 p. m., 1,042; 4 p. m., 1,030; 5 p. m., 991; 7 p. m., 1,100; 8 p. m., 952; 10 p. m., 999; 11 p. m., 901; midnight, 801 deaths.

Impudent Thief

After a vicarage in Birmingham, England was robbed, the following passage was found written on a wall: "Dear Parson: I thank you very much for the silver, and trust the congregation will have a whip round, and I shall come and have a look at it later on."—Silver Smith.

Fool's Fate

MISS CURCIO

Unfortunately born blind, Miss Mary Josephine Curcio, of Newark, N. J., was unwilling to settle back to a life of useless ease. She studied to such effect that she graduated with honors from the New Jersey College for Women, connected with Rutgers, receiving special honors and a Phi Beta Kappa membership.

Fighting Japanese Beetle

Seeking for a siren lure for the scourge of New Jersey and Pennsylvania orchards and gardens, the Japanese beetle, the bureau of entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, has discovered that geraniol sprayed in plants brings every Japanese beetle for a long distance to windward to the tree. The beetles hover around it, inhaling the odor with apparent delight. They do not eat the geraniol, but recent experiments have shown that they enjoy the taste of lead oleate. Previously it has not been possible to persuade them to eat arsenate of lead, because some instinct seems to warn them it is poisonous, but when this is mixed with lead oleate the taste of the arsenic and lead is disguised.

Ahead of Times

Richard Lieber, director of the state conservation department, is thinking of starting a crusade against the state seal.

"We are not cutting down trees any more, or at least we should not advocate it, and soon we will not be able to," he said. "Our present seal, do you know what it represents? I will tell you. The last man in the state cutting down the last tree in the state, while the last buffalo leaves the state and the sun is sinking behind the distant hills to leave a barren state in complete darkness. The designer of the seal was a prophet."—Indianapolis News.

An Adventure in Remodeling On An Average Man's Budget

The man who thinks that women are impractical has, patently, never discussed with his wife ways and means of buying a home which she liked. A Congressional investigating committee could have learned much from the report my wife gave me. Our little house (we already were beginning to feel that it belonged to us) belonged to Mr. R. He was going to tear it down, because he thought it detracted from the beauty of the entrance to his big place, but if we would move it away at once we could have it for a ridiculously small sum—about one-tenth its value. We could get two lots just off Creek Road, giving us a quarter of an acre, for $1,200. By going in with a neighbor who was moving a house (a lucky break for us) we could get our house moved for $400. We would have to have a cellar and foundations built, but T. (the village odd job contractor) would do it for $300. If we drew up plans for remodeling, Mr. P. (the village president and an old friend of ours) would go over to the local bank with us and help us to arrange a mortgage.

"Madame," said I, "you are a wonder. A little simple arithmetic tells me that the house will cost $400; the land, $1,200; the move, $400; and the cellar and foundations, $500; total, $2,500. Against that we have twenty shares of a stock, present market value about $125 a share. This gives us, discounting brokerage fee for selling the stock, just about $2,500. The house itself looked rather good. The old trees, which we were destined to lose, made a pleasant situation for any house. The lines of the house were simple and good. We decided at once to change them as little as possible. Crossing the Early General Grant porch, we entered a hall (if one may dignify it with the name) about four feet square. Straight ahead, between the walls, the staircase climbed steeply up like a chicken-ladder. At the right was the living-room, quite a pleasant room, about 12 feet by 15 feet. Back of it was the kitchen, a room 12 by 16, containing two doors and two windows, an iron sink, a hand pump, and a monstrous old coal stove. On the left of the hall, was the parlor, about the same size as the living-room, and a smaller room behind it. Upstairs, a large bedroom on the right, and two tiny ones on the left, opened into a tiny hall.

Armed with floor plans and perspective drawings made with practically no regard for perspective, the bank granted our mortgage. Within twenty-four hours after that event, work had started. Furthermore, it continued for the rest of the summer. The indefatigable Out lived up to her name by superintending the job every day. Around the first of November, we moved in in order to crowd the painters out. Out of a six-room cottage without heat or water, we had made an eight-room house with two baths and a lavatory, equipped with an efficient hot air furnace that warms us with only a ton of coal a month.

o'keepsie High- In Banner Riot

The time-honored feud between the classes of 1923 and 1924 at the o'keepsie High School broke out in a riot Wednesday morning. A mob of juniors bearing a class banner appeared in front of the school in North Hamilton street. The appearance of the 1924 banner proved to be just about as nothing to the injured feeling of seniors as a red flag is to the sentiment of a bull, says the o'keepsie Evening Star.

No sooner had the flag appeared than it was seen by the seniors than two classes were merged into a single and struggling mass. Each side strove with might and main for possession of the coveted banner. Nothing was torn, eyes blacked, and one emerged from the midst of the sea with gore streaming from battered nose.

All efforts on the part of Officer Cornick of the local police force to had been attracted by the disturbance, to quell the riot proved fruitless. Neighbors, fearing serious harm might come to some of the contestants, sent a hurried call to the police station for assistance. Officers Stephen Maher and Arlington Skinner were at once detailed as a riot squad and sent to the scene of the disturbance.

Before the patrol arrived on the scene, J. Schuyler Fox, principal of the school, arrived. He immediately commanded that the rioting cease and the banner, which had by that time fallen into the hands of the seniors, was turned over to him. The mob of sweating and panting pupils was dispersed and sent to their respective study halls.

The trouble started this year when members of the junior class, breaking an agreement which they had made as a class, stole the senior banner about ten days ago. This breach of faith on the part of the juniors incited the seniors to revenge and in turn the junior banner disappeared. Since that time until Wednesday morning the two classes have been existing under a veritable armed truce.

Mary Dyer

Mary Dyer was the wife of William Dyer, who removed from Massachusetts to Rhode Island in 1838. Having been sentenced to execution for rebellious action and obtruding herself after banishment upon pain of death, she was reprieved at the request of her son, on the condition that she departed in 48 hours and did not return. She returned and was executed June 1, 1800. She was a Quakeress, and, in the estimation of her friends, a martyr.—Chicago Journal.

Scopes, Tennessee biologist, said he expected Nathan Leopold would follow Richard Loeb in losing his sanity.

Old Monetary Term

The term "sterling money" is applied to the standard money of Great Britain. It is said to be derived from the word Esterling or Esterling. In the reign of King John the merchants of the Hanse towns in the eastern part of Germany, known as Esterlings, having long been noted for the purity of their coinage, were invited to England for the purpose of reforming the coinage. The invitation was accepted, and ever afterward good English money received the name of Esterling or "sterling money."—Exchange.

Fast Ticker Service Installed.

The Western Union Telegraph Company on Wednesday afternoon installed a new electric in the brokerage office of C. D. Halsey & Company in the Warren building, Fair street, which enables quotations to be received in that office within a few seconds after they have taken place on the New York Stock Exchange. The ticker was operated today for the first. The Kingston wire is the longest direct wire electric ticker service that has been installed. Albany has similar ticker service, but it is relayed in order to reach there.

Questions in Flag Contest

List of Questions Which Formed Basis of American Legion Flag Contest in City Schools, With Correct Answers.

The following are the questions and answers to the examination on the Flag Code recently given in the city schools. The prize of an American silk flag given by Kingston Post of the American Legion was won by the eighth grade of St. Peter's School.

All citizens are requested to study the questions and answers given so that American flags will hereafter be displayed correctly in Kingston.

The American Legion made a survey of flag display in the city on Memorial Day and found about 50 per cent of the flags improperly displayed. A great number of flags were hung flat against houses or from porches with the blue field to the right, instead of the left, when looking at them from the front of the house. In one instance a large American flag was draped over the railing of a porch, instead of being hung up flat, and a magazine and a man's straw hat were found stored on the flag. In other cases people had made draperies or festoons out of the flag, instead of using bunting. The flag, when not displayed from a staff, should always be displayed flat against room, building or from the top of the porch.

The Americanism Committee of the American Legion urges every citizen when displaying flags on Flag Day, next Sunday, to give strict attention to the points covered by the questions and answers here given.

1. (a) During what period of the 24-hours of the day should the flag generally be flown?

(b) On Memorial Day how should the flag be flown from sunrise to noon?

Answer—(a) From sunrise to sunset; (b) at half-mast.

2. Should you make a sofa cushion out of American flag or flags?

Answer—No.

3. When the flag is displayed on a staff in a church chancel, should it be at the clergyman's right or left?

Answer—Right.

4. What is the proper name of the blue field with white stars on the flag?

Answer—Union.

5. How many horizontal rows of stars are there on the flag?

Answer—Six when hung horizontally; eight when hung vertically.

6. What color is the fifth stripe on the flag?

Answer—Red.

7. When the American flag and a foreign flag are flown or carried together, should the American flag be at the foreign flag's right or left?

Answer—Right.

8. If you did not have a staff, and displayed a flag flat against the front of your house, should the union be to your right or left, you looking at it from the sidewalk in front of your house?

Answer—Left.

9. When you take down the flag in your yard, should you throw it down on the lawn, or fold it up and lay it on the lawn?

Answer—It should be folded carefully and put away. It should never be permitted to touch the ground.

10. (a) If the flag were suspended on a rope across Broadway in front of the city hall, should the union point toward the city hall or the high school?

(b) When so suspended, should the stripes run vertically or horizontally?

Answer—(a) city hall; (b) vertically.

Camp Wendy's Soliloquy

(Contributed.)

"To go, or not to go, that is the question:
Whether 'tis better in the city to suffer
The heat and sultriness of too much sunshine
Or take refuge from this mean discomfort
And by leaving end it. To work, to grind;
No more, and leaving school we quit!
The lessons and the thousand study hours
That 'Profs' insist on—'tis a happy thought Devotedly to be wished. To leave for camp:
For Camp: perchance for Wendy: ay there's the feat!
For to that joyous place what friends may come
When we have left our books and notes behind
'Tis food for thought; there is the chance
To make each girl a Scout;
For who would daily in the motion picture show,
The corner drug store or the city street,
Seeing no fields of flowers, trees or birds,
Losing the sense of freedom, laughter, play
All of these blessings may be had at camp
When you, good Scout, sign but a slip to say
I will be there."

DOROTHY WEETS WHEN MOTHER TESTIFIES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, June 11.—Dorothy Perkins on trial for murder, burst into tears in court today when her mother, a small, slender woman in black,
took the witness stand and testified she did not know who fired the shot that killed Thomas Templeton.

"I don't know who fired the shot," the mother said, pathetically, in a tired, broken voice.

Only 17 is charged with the killing of Templeton, her admirer, at a party in the Perkins' home St. Valentine's day. A witness for the state said yesterday Dorothy admitted she fired the shot.

Financial
and Commercial

New York, June 11.—Oil stocks gave an excellent exhibition of their newly acquired strength and popularity in the stock market today, reflecting also the steady improvement in the oil industry. Since the early part of 1924, the most consistent laggards in the stock market, the oil stocks in the last week or so have been in better favor with both the professional and public traders.
Heavy trading in Texas Company,
Independent Oil and Gas and General Petroleum, Pacific Oil, Skelly
Oil, Sinclair, Phillips, Marland, Simms Royal Dutch, Shell Union
etc. resulted in an upward revision of oil stock prices. For the first time in many months some of these stocks made gains of more than two points.

Though not as active as in the last few sessions, the high priced market specialties and motor stocks advanced in good form. Havana
Electric, Maxwell Motors, Dupont and Pullman moved up on limited trading from two to eight points.
The Mercantile stocks joined this group later in the day. Woolworth advanced five points to 137½; Macy, Gimbel, Montgomery Ward and others rose a point or more.

The bulls were more aggressive and more confident in their battle with the bears. Seeing the tide of battle going against them, the bears rushed into cover in stocks and the short interest was uncomfortably crowded.

Money conditions were favorable to the bulls with call money down to 3½ per cent.

Railroad and equipment stocks were generally inactive, though some of the former regained the losses sustained yesterday. New York Central moved up to 114½.

Maxwell Motors B certificates sold up 5½ points to 113½; Havana
Electric gained 8 and American and Foreign Power registered a new high above 40. Outside markets were steady.

Cooler Weather Replaces Heat

Following a week of oppressive heat a cool wave is now sweeping over the country. In Kingston on Wednesday night most people found it necessary to use extra bed covering. This morning thermometers on the street registered 60 degrees.
Men who had stopped wearing vests and coats during the warm spell donned them again. Women who have been trying to dress as cool as possible also donned outer wraps to keep off the sudden chill in the air.
The lowest point registered by The Freeman thermometer during the night was 58 degrees while the highest point recorded at noon today was 68 degrees.

Charges Brindell
Witnesses Lied

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Osining, N. Y., June 11.—Samuel Untermyer, special deputy attorney general, appointed to conduct the hearings before the state board of parole into charges that Robert P.
Brindell, former building trades leader, had violated his parole, today accused two of yesterday's witnesses of testifying falsely before the board.
He declared he intended pointing the evidence he had before District Attorney Banton of New York for action by the grand jury.

The two witnesses accused by Un-termyer were G. Norman Robertson and Morris M. Landres, both contractors. They did so, he said, because they "feared Brindell" and what he might be able to do to them in the future conduct of their business had they told the truth.

"These men," he said, "are very fearful of their livelihood."
"I have concluded we must have an investigation where witnesses may be examined in secret, and, therefore,
suggest a grand jury investigation."

George Sanborn, a member of the Dock Builders' and Pier Carpenters' Union, admitted that Brindell had been active among workers after he had been paroled.

New Regulation
For Parcel Post

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 11.—New regulations were issued by the post office department, today effective August 1, under which the acceptance of a parcel by any post office carries with it an agreement on the part of the mailer, either to pay return postage in the event of non-delivery or to renounce all claim to the parcel.

This new regulation is expected to bring about a reduction of one-third in the number of parcels received annually at the dead letter office, saving of thousands of dollars to the mailing public and the saving of other thousands to the post office department, together with the elimination of an immense waste of time.

Riff stronghold at Alhucemas, a fortified island which the Rifis captured recently.

Pilgrims Walked to Rome

Two unusual Anno Santo pilgrims recently presented themselves for confession at St. Peter's. One was from Oberammergau, in Bavaria, the other from Scotland. Both had made the entire pilgrimage to the Eternal City on foot, except, of course, the passage of the English channel, by the boat. The clergy raised a fund to permit them to return home by railroad. In the first Anno Santo, 62 years ago, and many subsequent ones
the great majority of the pilgrims came on foot. It is still customary for young German boys and girls to walk to Rome in their hearts, sometimes merely with the zeal for adventure.
Some affect the trade of troubadour and gaily sing to the guitar in the streets, accepting, even requesting,
pennies to buy their evening meal.

Remarkable Fast

William Shakespeare—the other
William, who has written a book called "Thin Works on Sincere"—tells an amazing incident about Labache,
the greatest buxom of all time—
when a friend of his knew intimately.
At dinner one day, Labache, full of food, sang a long note from piano to forte and back to piano; then drank a glass of wine, without having breathed; then sang a dramatic scale up the octave in trills still in the same breath, and finally blew out a candle with his mouth open.
There were gasps in those days.

Ulster County Musical Association
Announces The Five Programs To

Spent on The Series.

The Ulster County Musical Association is now ready to make its announcement of its membership and financial status as well as the program for the five concerts for next year.

When all returns were in and counted, it was found that there were only 880 actual memberships, several promises of support of the Association failing to materialize.
That gives the Association the sum of $4,400. The initial expenses have been, thus far $80 for the putting over of the intensive drive for members. The program committee figured that it would cost close to $120 to print and distribute the tickets and an additional sum of $300 was set aside as a contingent fund to cover any possible expenses for the remainder of the year.

Should this latter sum not be needed, it will be held over to start the work of another series of concerts by the Association next year. Taking out this $500, the program com-

Colonials Won Out in Ninth

Brooklyn Giants Lost to Locals in Poor Contest—Visitors Couldn't Win After Making Nineteen Hits and Colonials Making Five Errors.

The Colonials' ninth inning runs were what upset the Colored Giants of Brooklyn, Wednesday evening, while they were in the midst of a happy celebration of the ball game. The Giants thought they had the ball game, but three runs sent the colored team crashing to the earth, the victims of a speedy rally ending in a 11 to 10 victory.

The Brooklyn Giants had several dangerous grips on the locals, first 6 to 1 in the fourth, then 10 to 5 in the fifth when the Colonials jammed out the necessary five markers, two in the eighth and three in the last frame, for a most unexpected win.

The visitors had the upper hand by two runs when the Colonials got up for their last bat. Deegan led the rally with a hit to center field. While Dudley was tossing them over to McDermott, the catcher let one go past and took his time finding it, long enough for Matly to get perched on third. Then McDermott was tossed out on his hit to second base. McCue singled to left field, Coyle then scored McDermott and traced the circuit route as far as third on his drive to center. This tied the score with only one out. Schwab acted as if to kill the next ball tossed but instead pushed out a mild grounder and by the time the Brooklynites had the ball, Coyle had kicked the plate letting down a very dazed bunch of Giants.

Dudley adorned the rubber for the Giants and looked good as far as curves were concerned until the fourth, when he became too liberal with his passes, handing out four free tickets which helped the locals make five runs to tie the score. The locals smashed out three runs this inning and brought the other two around through walks. Schwab's and Robins' hits were the most valuable as Bill knocked in McDermott's hit and McCue's walk while Robins dismissed Coyle and Schwab from the bags with a healthy poke to center which gave him a complete trip when the Cubans lost track of the ball in the tall grass.

The colored sluggers had an enormous appetite for the local pitcher's slants, it being no task at all to meet nineteen of their tosses for safeties. Mike Morgan started the contest and after the locals tied the score in the fifth, Lester Caunitz was given a chance against the swatters. Mike didn't seem to hide his ball much as the Cubans met him for nine hits, five of which were allowed in the second. Nor were Lester's curves much of a puzzle to the visitors, for during the one inning that he reigned on the mound they drew five hits and made a four run lead on the Colonials. McDermott was finally given charge of the rubber in the sixth and showed the most skill for not one Giant scored while he led the attack although they fashioned five hits and barely missed scoring in the ninth. Three men were fastened to the sacks in this frame when Jack threw to Coyle to capture Lovejoy off first and while he was making for second Flourney tried for home but was finished by Robins on Coyle's throw home when the Giant failed to touch the plate. The next man whiffed and the following one went out on a fly to right field.

The game was replete with heavy hitting, good fielding and bad fielding, etc.

McCoy playing third base for the visitors exhibited a brand of playing seldom witnessed in semi-pro games. He handled perfectly eleven assists and two putouts.

K. G. & E. Beat West Shore Team

Kingston Gas Team Strengthens Hold on First Place By Defeating West Shore 7 to 4—The Freeman Plays Van Slyke Friday.

One of the best industrial baseball games this season was witnessed by the largest crowd so far this year. The game was an Industrial League session between the Kingston Gas & Electric Company and the West Shore Railroad. The gas eaters gained a more secure hold on first place by defeating the freight handlers to the tune of 7 to 4.

In the first two frames of the game neither side scored. In the third inning the West Shore crossed the rubber for the first two runs. No further runs were gained by the freight handlers until the final frame when two more runs were chalked up for them.

The Gas Company were held scoreless until the fifth inning when four runs were credited to them. In the sixth frame three runs more came across.

The pitching was in command of the McAuliffe brothers. H. McAuliffe, who twirled for the West Shore, pitched a good game. He allowed one man a base on balls, hit two others and allowed the gas eaters ten hits and had five strikeouts to his credit. J. McAuliffe, who pitched for the Gas Company, allowed the freight handlers four hits, had three strikeouts and allowed three men free passes.

Many fans were present to lend their support to the teams and much vocal music was heard from all sides. The score by innings:

Kingston Gas & E. Co. 0 0 0 4 3 x-7

NO DATE FOR ITALIAN HOSPITAL FUND BOUTS

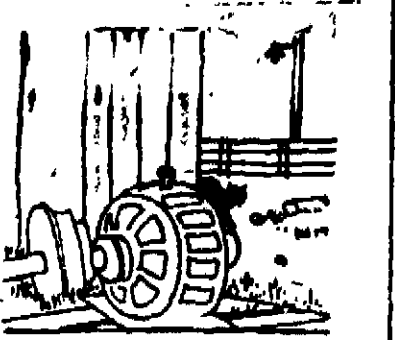

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 11.—An amicable settlement for the Italian Hospital Fund bouts between Mickey Walker and Harry Greb and Harry Wills and Charlie Weinert, had not been decided upon early today, one report having it that the show would be transferred from the Polo Grounds to the Yankee Stadium. The bouts originally were scheduled for June 19, were postponed to a July date owing to an injury to one of Walker's toes.

The fact that the New York Giants will resume play at the Polo Grounds July 5 has prevented Humbert J. Fahey and Jimmy DeForest, promoters, from reaching an agreement on the date. They will confer today.

Kearns Still Seeks License

As Manager From N. Y. State Boxing Commission to Second Walker in Match With Greb—Must First Accept Wills's Deal to Dempsey.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 11.—It was stated on sound authority that the hasty postponement of the Mickey Walker-Harry Greb world's champion middleweight goes much further than a mere injury to Walker's big toe. The writer's information is that the injury goes all the way to the dignity of Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, and inevitably, the name of Jack Dempsey finds its way into the immediate business.

The situation, according to the best advices, is briefly this: Kearns desires a manager's license from the New York State Athletic Commission in order to second Walker in the Greb match. He cannot get it; that is, not unless he accepts Harry Wills's challenge to Dempsey for the heavyweight title. He doesn't want to accept the Wills's deal any more than he wants to stop a taxicab with his abdomen.

Walker's incapacitation reported variously as a profound injury to the big toe on his left foot or right foot or both, is said to have been a most welcome intervention because it gave Kearns the chance to gaze before he gallops. He admitted sending a cablegram to Dempsey in Berlin yesterday but declared that the message had to do with the possibility of Dempsey meeting Gene Tunney in a championship bout. Broadway scoffed openly at this idea today. The commission has ordained that Dempsey must meet Wills first, if ever again he designs to dally with the gloves. Therefore, any talk of a meeting between Dempsey and Tunney hereabouts is regarded as idle chatter.

Kearns must be convinced of this himself, since he learned by personal experience on Tuesday last that the commission is not in a conciliatory mood. He paid the board a social call, sending in his visiting card and confidently awaited an immediate reply. It was far from immediate.

Half an hour later, an attendant returned to inform Kearns that the commission was busy, very busy. Had Mr. Kearns made an appointment? No. That was too bad. Mr. Kearns would have to call again some time.

In brief, Kearns was far from getting his license and the Walker-Greb fight was less than two weeks in the offing. It left Kearns in the position of making a decision on the Dempsey-Wills matter by tomorrow at the latest. As it happened, Walker's injury was just the "breather" he needed.

Tagging Major League Bases

Coveleskie was man-handled for four runs in the sixth, including homers by Cobb and Wingo but Marberry tamed the Tigers in the last three innings and the Senators slugged their way to an 11 to 7 decision.

The Reds made it three in a row over the Phillies by socking Mitchell with opportune discretion, 3 to 2. Critz opening the game with a home run.

A three run rally in the ninth in which pinch hitters lauded the premises, staked the Athletics to a 9 to 8 victory over the White Sox, after Sheely's homer with one on in the seventh had given the Sox the lead and the Cardinals made merry with Ehrhardt and Hubbell and won in a romp from the Dodgers 11 to 2.

Thanks to the conservative pitching of Dean and the hitting of Menzel and Kelly, the Giants pulled out a 5 to 3 decision over the Cubs.

Johnson's homer tied the Indians in the ninth, after they had taken the lead in the first half of the inning. Menzel's triple with two on beat them in the tenth after they again had taken the lead, the Yankees winning, 6 to 5. Such is baseball.

The Browns got seventeen hits off four Red Sox pitchers and won, going away, 15 to 8.

In spite of their rally in the late innings the Pirates failed second to the Braves, 6 to 4, when Morrison was clouted for four runs in the fifth.

Spread Teachings.
Also at Georgia will be Harry Mehre, line coach, whom Rockne taught never to allow a passing back to rip up a perfect good defense the way his backs won't to do the "Mayor" remain at Georgia, while Frank Thomas, co-worker of last fall got to Chattanooga University to spread the gospel of Rockne speed and cleverness.
Thomas will take over the duty of head coach at Chattanooga, and for assistance he will have the "Philly" brains of Charlie Collins, a young man who learned the rudiments and elements and a few things more about football from the Knute Rockne instructor in the science at Notre Dame University. Collins was a teammate of the four Horsemen on last year's team eleven, playing one of the team's.

The other member of the staff who will attempt to raise a crop of "Rockne" gridiron warriors is Dr. John W. Weibel, the man get guard, who will join the coaching staff at Vanderbilt University.
